Not only are they visually stunning, but down to the very last detail, whether its the leather finish to the inside walls or the colour and weight of the board itself, the counters and dice, these completely bespoke backgammon boards are beautifully made and incredibly stylish.

They have been designed by interior decorator and furniture designer Nick Plant and no two boards are the same - if you had something specific in mind colourwise etc. it would be best to deal with him directly so email me for details. Otherwise they can be viewed in the shop where several are on show.

And most importantly, they are a good size and weight and extremely comfortable to play on.
